

The Yellow Rose of Texas

There's a [G]yellow rose in Texas, that I am going to see,
No other fellow [D7]knows her, nobody, only me.
She [G]cried so when I left her, it like to broke my heart,
And [D7]if I ever find her, we never more will [G]part.

*She's the [G]sweetest little rosebud, this fellow ever knew,
Her eyes are bright as [D7]diamonds, they sparkle like the dew.
You may [G]talk about your Clementine, and sing of Rosalee,
But the [D7]Yellow Rose of Texas beats the girls of Tennes[G]see.*

Where the [G]Rio Grande is flowing, and starry skies are bright,
She walks along the [D7]river, each quiet summer night:
She [G]thinks of when we parted so very long ago;
I [D7]promised I would come back, no more to leave her [G]so.

Chorus

Now I'm [G]goin' back to find her, my heart is full of woe.
We'll sing the songs [D7]together, that we sung so long ago
I'll [G]play the banjo gaily, we'll sing forever more,
And [D7]the Yellow Rose of Texas shall be mine forever [G]more.

Chorus

CORNBREAD AND BUTTER BEANS

[G]Cornbread and butter beans and you across the [D7]table Eating beans and making love as long as I am [G]able Hoeing corn and cotton, too, and when the day is [D7]over Ride a mule, a crazy fool, and love again all [G]lover.

[G]Goodbye. Don't you cry. I'm going to Lou'si[D7]ana,
Buy a dog and a big fat hog and marry Suzy [G]Anna.
Sing-song, ding-dong, gonna take a trip to [D7]China
Cornbread and butter beans, and there to Caro[G]lina.

Chorus

[G]Wearing shoes and drinking booze is going against the [D7]Bible
A necktie will make you die and cause you lots of [G]trouble
Streetcars and whiskey bars and kissing pretty [D7]woman,
Whoa, man, that's the end of a terrible be[G]ginning.

Chorus

[G]Can't read and don't care and education's [D7]awful
Raising heck and writing checks, that ought to be un[G]lawful
Silk hose and pretty clothes are just a waste of [D7]money
I can see how glad you'll be to marry me, my [G]honey.

Chorus
